

Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie

Once upon a time there was a petite college student who lived in a dorm room on the south side of campus. Her best friend thought of her as a sister; and her boyfriend loved her dearly. He loved her so much that one day when they were shopping in the bookstore, he bought her a grey Kutztown hoodie that she wears constantly. Since she wears this hoodie so much, people started calling her Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie.

One day, her best friend, Cindy Rella, was sick and asked Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie to take a paper she had written to her professor's office so she wouldn't be given a late grade.

Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie put her friend's paper into her messenger bag with her other homework and set off for Professor Alice N. Wonderland's office, which was on the North side of campus.

As she was walking past Old Main, she met with the Golden Bear, Kutztown's old mascot, who is still a little bitter that his name was changed. He asked her where she was going, because her messenger bag didn't look very heavy. The naïve student, who didn't know he was bitter, told him that she was delivering a paper to her best friend's professor, Ms. Alice N. Wonderland, because her friend was sick and couldn't make it to class.

"Is her professor's office far away?" asked Golden Bear.

"Well, it is all the way over in the Beekey Education Building on the lower floor," answer Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie.

"I am actually on my way to a meeting in that building," lied Golden Bear. "I'm going to go this way past the Student Union Building, and you go that way around the library and we'll see who gets there first."

Golden Bear ran as fast as he could, and it is well known that bears are very fast runners. Meanwhile, Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie kept meeting up with friends who wanted to talk and delayed her arrival. It was not long before Golden Bear arrived at Professor Alice N. Wonderland's office. Golden Bear knocked at Professor Alice N. Wonderland's door hoping that he would be able to catch her off guard.

"Who is it?", questioned Professor Alice N. Wonderland.

“It’s Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie, I’m here to deliver a paper for my friend, Cindy Rella, who missed your class today because she is sick,” said Golden Bear, speaking in a voice like Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie.

Professor Alice N. Wonderland who was too busy grading the papers to stand up and open the door yelled out, “It’s unlocked, come on in!”

Golden Bear just turned the knob and the door opened. He walked in without being noticed, walked over to Professor Alice N. Wonderland’s desk, and ate her all up in a single bite. He then opened her coat closet and began looking for some of her clothing that he could put on to hide his true identity. He found a long coat, scarf, and hat, put them on, and sat down at Professor Alice N. Wonderland’s desk. It was not long before Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie arrived, knocking at the door.

“Who is it?”, questioned Golden Bear speaking in a voice like Professor Alice N. Wonderland.

Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie had only ever met Professor Alice N. Wonderland once before, so when her voice was a little rough, she didn’t think anything of it. She answered, “It is Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie, I’m here to deliver a paper for my friend, Cindy Rella, who missed your class today because she is sick.”

Golden Bear yelled out trying to make his voice sound more feminine, “It’s unlocked, come on in!”

Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie turned the knob and the door opened.

Golden Bear, noticing that it was really her, began to get a little nervous that his plan would not work. “Put the paper on my desk and have a seat,” said Golden Bear.

Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie dug the paper out of her messenger bag, placed in on the desk, and sat down across from a very odd looking Professor Alice N. Wonderland. “Professor Alice N. Wonderland, what a hairy face you have!”

“Well, all the women in my family have a problem with facial hair, and I missed my salon appointment to get it waxed,” replied Golden Bear

“Professor Alice N. Wonderland, what big heavy clothes you are wearing!”

“Well the heating isn’t working right and I think I may have caught a cold,” replied Golden Bear.

“Professor Alice N. Wonderland, what big hands you have!”

“It runs in my family, all the women are extremely hairy and have big hands,” replied Golden Bear.

“Professor Alice N. Wonderland, what big eyes you have!”

“I am just more awake today than usual, so my eyes only look big,” replied Golden Bear.

“Professor Alice N. Wonderland, what big teeth you have!”

“Just the right size to eat you with my dear!” replied Golden Bear.

After saying those words, Golden Bear dove across the desk and tried to eat Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie. Luckily for her, she had taken a self-defense for women class the semester before, and she beat that bear to a pulp. If you go into Little Grey Kutztown Hoodie’s dorm room now, you can see her beautiful golden bear rug.
